[1] Amazon.com is one of the biggest success stories of the internet. It was started by Jeff Bezos, an American entrepreneur and e-commerce pioneer. He is also the founder of a company that aims to make space travel affordable for ordinary people.

[2] Jeff Bezos was born in 1964 in New Mexico. His father, Ted Jorgenson, acted in fairs and circuses while Jeff was still a baby. Jeff's mother, Jacklyn Bezos, was still in her teens when she married Ted, and their marriage lasted for little more than one year only. Jeff Bezos attended River Oaks Elementary School in Houston. He used to spend summers doing farm work in his grandfather's ranch.

[3] After some time, Jeff's family moved to Florida. He was then transferred to Miami Palmetto Senior High School, where he excelled at his studies and realized his passion for computers. He was even invited to participate in the Student Science Training Program at the University of Florida and won the Silver Knight Award in 1982.

[4] Bezos planned to study physics at Princeton University, but he soon decided to return to his love of computers. After graduating, Bezos went to Wall Street in New York where computer science was increasingly in demand. He worked in several firms there. He then became vice president of a company specialized in the application of computer sciences to the stock market.

[5] In 1994, Bezos moved to Seattle to invest in the internet market. He made the decision by drawing up a list of possible products that he could sell with the help of the internet, including software, CDs, and hardware. In the end, he decided on an online bookstore. Books were the choice because of the wide range of titles in existence. Another advantage of an internet store was that he did not have to pay taxes for the products he sold via the internet.

[6] Bezos decided that Seattle would be a perfect place for his new business at the time because of the remarkable pool of hi-tech talent. He managed to secure $1 million from his friends and family, enough to set up his business in the garage of his Seattle home. At first, it was called "Cadabra". He later changed its name several times. Eventually, he decided on Amazon after looking through the words that start with A in the dictionary. Bezos liked the connection between one of the planet's longest rivers and largest bookstore.
